RUSSIA CHARGED WITH DOWNING PLANE

French Call Off Fighting Before Time

By LOUIS GUILBERT
United Press Staff Correspondent
HANOI (AP) — The French high command called off the fighting in Indochina Friday without waiting for the formality of putting the Geneva truce into effect and asked the Communists to do the same.

Orders were radioed to French Union troops throughout Indochina to cease all offensive combat, and to fight only if attacked. French airmen were ordered not to bomb or strafe Communist troops unless they endangered French positions.

French planes dropped thousands of leaflets into areas where Vietminh troops were concentrated, announcing the French order and asking the Communists to match it on their side.

The leaflets were signed by Gen. Paul Ely, French supreme commander and high commissioner. One spot mentioned the only specific place mentioned in the leaflets was the French post on the high plateau of central Viet Nam. It had been under sporadic attack. Ely said that if the Reds did not let up, they would be subjected to artillery fire.

All French forces, however, remote, have radio receivers and can be notified of the steps for ending the war. Many Communist units had to rely on word of mouth.

Military sources said French planes would carry out a number of airdrop missions in southern and central Viet Nam to spread the word of the ending of combat.

The high command announced that the truce formally would come into effect in northern Viet Nam at 7 a.m. next Tuesday.

No Trouble Foreseen
French staff officers foresaw no trouble in the application of the truce. Nearly all the Communist troops in the region were deployed in the Red River Delta, with ready access to general orders.

Even before the high command made it official, the French were winding up the combat as fast as they could.

Naval squadrons of the aircraft carrier Bois Belleau, the former U. S. Navy's Belleau Wood, were ordered to return to their ship.

Only "minor action" was reported around the Hanoi — Haiphong pocket, the last French territory in northern Indochina. French aircraft flew only 11 sorties all day Thursday.

Small scale prisoner exchanges were going on. Forty six French and Viet Nam soldiers were handed over to the French Thursday in central Annam. Another 140, 70 men from each side, were exchanged two days ago near Qui Nhon, on the Annamese coast.

The U. S. consulate here said it had taken measures to evacuate the handful of American newsmen and officials still in Hanoi.

The Week's Balance Sheet In A Hot And Cold War

By CHAS. J. CANN
United Press Staff Correspondent
The week's balance sheet on the international scene.

1. For the first time in 20 years there is no "hot" war. The Indochina armistice agreement admittedly was a defeat for the free world. But France's position had become untenable. And it appeared plain that the United States would permit no further Communist conquest to go unchallenged. President Eisenhower warned: "Any renewal of Communist aggression would be viewed by us as a matter of grave concern." The Indochina setback drew the Western Allies closer together. Washington dispatches said the United States and Great Britain, burying their differences, had determined to start organizing Southeast Asia defense.

2. It was announced in Geneva that the Chinese Communist had promised to free six of the Americans they held. The Reds said they were "reviewing" the cases of about 60 other Americans held. It was hoped most or all of them would be free soon.

3. The situation in Southwest Asia continued to develop favorably to the West. Iran sharply rejected a Russian warning against joining "the aggressive military bloc which is being created on the basis of the Turkish-Pakistan military alliance." Iran said it would be ready to join any such pact which might safeguard its independence and territorial integrity. An agreement to end the long British-Iranian oil dispute, which stood in the way of Iranian cooperation with the West, seemed imminent.

The Bad
1. In regard to the Indochina agreement, there was no pretense that it was anything but a defeat for the United States as well as France. The prestige of the United States suffered a severe blow especially among the Southeast Asian "neutralist" nations. The prestige of Communist China was correspondingly increased. It will be more difficult to gain the support of India, Ceylon, Burma and Indonesia for Southeast Asia security pact.

2. Russia, with its hands freed in the Far East, turned promptly to Western Europe. Dispatches from Moscow showed clearly that the Kremlin's next step will be to try again to sabotage Allied military cooperation and especially to block the European Defense Communist pact. Russia may propose a new four-power foreign ministers conference. Such a bid might appeal to Great Britain and France. It would not be welcomed by the United States.

3. The situation in Tunisia and Morocco confronted French Premier Pierre Mendes-France with a new crisis. The campaign of nationalist terrorism continued unchecked. There is always the danger that the Communists may move in on this situation. It is reported that Mendes-France may offer a sweeping series of reforms. The question is whether they will be sweeping enough for the nationalists.

More Veterinarians Are Allowed To Vaccinate Dogs

FRANKFORT, July 23 (AP) — Two dozen additional veterinarians were eligible to vaccinate dogs today following a ruling adopted yesterday by the State Board of Health.

The rule will permit a group of veterinarians who hold state licenses but are not on a list of "accredited veterinarians" prepared by the U.S. Department of Agriculture to inoculate dogs for rabies.

The immediate result of the ruling will allow Dr. Herbert W. Schein, Louisville, to vaccinate dogs. Schein, who is licensed but not accredited, filed suit against the board last week, charging he was being discriminated against.

Dr. Bruce Underwood, state health commissioner, faced a contempt of court ruling yesterday in connection with the suit, but the contempt hearing was called off as a result of board action.

Underwood had been ordered to appear at Paris today before Franklin Circuit Judge W. B. Ardrey. Ardrey issued the contempt ruling after Underwood failed to honor a restraining order issued last week.

Dr. J. P. McBeth will be the evangelist. He is a preacher, speaker and writer, and has spoken throughout the United States. The services will be held twice daily, 10:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.

Pilot Claims Russians Were Pilots Of MIG Attackers

HONG KONG (AP) — A British pilot charged today that two Red jet fighter planes which he believes were piloted by Russians shot down his airliner near the Communist island of Hainan.

Although Capt. Philip Blown was specific in blaming the attack on the Soviet Union, the British instructed their charge d'affaires in Peking, Red China, to protest against the shooting down of the airliner.

A spokesman for the British Foreign Office in London said Blown's plane was not off course and that the government was "satisfied the planes could not have come from anywhere else than Hainan."

"We were attacked by two MIGs," Blown said from his hospital bed in Hong Kong. "I believe they were piloted by Russians. Our plane was badly shot up."

Hainan, in the South China Sea, is reported to be the base for Soviet air and submarine operations.

Only eight persons aboard the plane, including three Americans, were known to have survived.

Blown, told United Press Correspondent Pete Sum that his radio operator, Steve Wong, was "killed instantly."

"You're a reporter?" Blown asked when Sum tried to obtain more details. "I don't want to say anything more."

Nine other persons were still missing. The survivors — including Mrs. L. L. Parish and her daughter Valerie, 6, of Los Angeles and P. S. Thacher of Stonington, Conn., were rescued by American flying boats.

Mrs. Parish's husband, who has been in the Orient as a pilot and exporter since 1945 and their two sons, Larry, 4, and Philip, 2, were among the missing.

Charges Borne Out
British government authorities at Hong Kong said preliminary investigations supported Blown's charges.

There is now substantial evidence that the Cathay Pacific Airways passenger plane which was ditched in the sea off Hainan Island yesterday morning was shot down by two unidentified fighter planes on its normal route from Singapore to Hong Kong, a government statement said. "Inquiries are continuing."

The government announcement said a Royal Air Force plane sighted a dinghy carrying survivors, but that when a Sunderland rescue plane arrived the pilot radioed there was a swell on the sea varying from eight to 12 feet, making it impossible to land.

However, the announcement said, an American Grumman flying boat which was better equipped succeeded in landing and picked up the survivors.

Eight U. S. Navy Skyraiders flew over for the rescue planes in the event any other Red fighters appeared on the scene.

Unofficial preliminary returns from the Agriculture Department on Friday's voting showed 73.3 per cent of 267,104 farmers voting for a 1955 wheat quota program coupled with stiff controls on other crops. A two-thirds vote was necessary for approval.

It was surprisingly light vote, the smallest in the four years that the elections have been held. And the percentage favoring the controls was the lowest on record. From 800,000 to 1,000,000 farmers were estimated to be eligible to vote.

While a few scattered counties were unreported, and 4,002 challenged votes remained to be tallied, department officials said there weren't enough votes uncounted to change the verdict.

Until North Dakota reported—the 44th state—to be heard from—the election was undecided with 66.7 per cent of those voting favoring controls.

At that point the diversified farming states seemed to be outvoting the Wheat Belt states and turning the election against the federal cut-back.

But North Dakota farmers gave overwhelming support to the program with 42,206, or 95.7 per cent of the 48,279 voting, approving the program.

The outcome of the referendum means that all wheat farmers growing more than 15 acres of wheat will have to accept acreage allotments cutting plantings about 13 per cent next year. Those violating allotments will become ineligible for price supports and have to pay a cash fine on each bushel of wheat produced on excess acreage.

DEFEAT FOR WEST

The cease-fire agreement in Indo-China which we all hope means the end of the seven-and-one-half year old war marks another military defeat for the West, possibly the most decisive one yet, but it was inevitable unless the United States wanted to relieve the exhausted French and engage in an all-out conflict.

The defeat has been delayed much longer than some military men in this country thought possible. It is far more than a military defeat in an isolated French colony. It is a major defeat for the Marshall Plan for Europe because the French fought the war with Marshall Plan financial aid.

When the history of the long conflict is written we may see more clearly the Acheson-Truman reasons for the "police action" in Korea. It may have been shrewdly designed as relief for the French and anti-Communist natives in Indo-China. Where our former leaders miscalculated was on the ability and desire of "Chinese Volunteers" to enter the war.

Even after the Chinese began crossing the Yalu, and General MacArthur was fired because he wanted to bomb their marshalling yards in Manchuria, the French fought on in Indo-China with the hope we would intervene even then to prevent defeat in Korea and run the risk of "losing face" throughout the Far East. Their fate was sealed when we accepted a stalemate as the price of peace in Korea.

What the future holds in store nobody knows. We do know the Communists are on the march, not only militarily but diplomatically. Some of the smartest men and women on earth are amazed that a "have-not nation" like Russia and even China could within a single generation, seize control of a major portion of the world and rule as no king or potentate in all history ever ruled. No military leader achieved as much as Foreign Minister Molotov, or even Red China's Chou Enlai.

A diplomat like France's Pierre Mendes-France is not our ideal so far as character is concerned. He assumed office one month ago on a "pledge to get a cease-fire agreement in Indo-China in thirty days, or resign. It seems his idea was "if you can't beat 'em, join 'em," but even so it appears he is making good on his promise and it may be what his people consider the "pearl of great price." And, while it may be difficult for us to realize it, his policies are shared by some of the leaders in this country, as well as in France and England.

Our opinion is that the United States hasn't lost anything worth having. The trouble is that we have acquired the European attitude towards values in recent years. Indo-China is suddenly important to us because it produces lots of rice we don't need, and don't want our friends in Asia to get it.

The Old World has been concerned over the "balance of power" for centuries. It has been in favor of Rome, Spain, Germany, England, France and Russia since before the Christian era, but up until 1941 when Germany attacked Belgium we didn't seem to care who held the balance. Now we are not only afraid of Russia, we fear our best and oldest friend in the Far East—China—and Hong Kong has become important to us because it means a great deal financially to England, just like Indo-China means so much to France.

Our leaders may be right in believing war with Int. Communism is inevitable. They are probably right in maintaining our defenses at peak efficiency. Our belief is that we could spend our billions to better advantage on such things as the fifty billion dollar highway construction program recommended by President Eisenhower, schools and colleges to accommodate the biggest crop of war babies in our history who are fast reaching school age, locks and dams on our rivers, soil conservation and improvement, and tax relief for manufacturers of consumer goods, instead of short-term exemptions for defense factories.

We deplore the French defeat in Indo-China, just as we deplore our stalemate in Korea. We refuse to grieve over it to the extent of accepting the defeat as ours and hope our leaders will take it as added proof of China's unfitness for membership in United Nations. France is our friend. This defeat may cause her to stand firm with us in refusing to admit Red China in spite of England's insistence.

Whenever one makes a suggestion that someone else will take, and it turns out like you thought it would, it makes you feel good all over. A couple of weeks ago we suggested in this column that to have more fun fishing, take a boy or girl with you. And if you are seeking some real fishing fun, fish the farm ponds in Calloway County for those scrappy bream and bluegill. Josiah Darnall, MSC music prof., took our suggestion to heart and treated his young son, Robert, to a real fishing thrill. Going to one of the counties farm ponds, they caught over 30 bream Saturday, two weeks ago. Last Saturday I went with them to another farm pond and the three of us took over 50 bream and bluegill. Sure they were small, but ever seen a boy's eyes light up when he can catch even small fish at the rate of one or more a minute? Some sportsmen say that their children do not like to fish. Maybe the reason lies in the fact that they have never been taken to where they can easily catch fish quick; after the boy hits them on a farm pond, they can graduate to Kentucky Lake fishing and show pop how to get the big bass.

Commercial Game Preserve Rights In The Bluegrass Section Will Make This Possible This Fall; Also Project May Give Data On How This Species Will Do In Kentucky.

The above question appeared at the head of a feature article in the "Happy Hunting Ground" magazine. The story gives the answer to a heart's desire of many Kentucky sportsmen. The author is not named; but the article contains information that needs to be passed on to you, about hunting possibilities in our own state for the gameiest bird sportsmen are permitted to hunt. Here are a few excerpts from the article.

"Nearly every hunter eventually goes — or plans to go — pheasant hunting in South Dakota. He takes from one to three friends, drives 2,000 miles or more, sacrifices a week of hard earned vacation, spends an unholy amount of money, develops a strictly strained atmosphere around his home, and the number of hunters who have killed even the 'take home' limit recently is dwindling."

A commercial venture — really an ideal controlled hunting preserve — opens this fall in Kentucky. It will save all the fuss mentioned above and provide some real hunting experiences under ideal conditions for all avid bird getters. Already several Murrayans are planning to send in their reservations for the opening of the season soft October 1st. You may be thinking that hunting on a preserve or a Game Farm will not be sporting nor provide real atmosphere, but your argument was anticipated.

Hear this. This preserve has 3,500 acres (five and a half square miles) of beautiful hunting country right on the edge of the Outer Bluegrass. For the opening season 3,500 mature ringneck pheasants are released into perfect cover. There's a lodge to meet at, to change or leave gun cases, to chew the fat, and a crackling log fire to back up to.

"Bring your own dogs if you like — if they're well broke — or use those available on the preserve. Want to ride horseback behind your dogs? They'll be available."

"Want evidences of civilization around you? You won't find them on this preserve. A game trail, a jeep track, an occasional pole barn or overgrown fence is all you'll ever see. In the whole 3,500 acres there's only one 'civilized' road and it's private. Doesn't go anywhere except along a series of ridges to a barn at its terminus."

"But bird country! Man alive! Larry Gale, director of game management of the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources says with the proper development it will be a paradise. Larry rode it for more than two hours without ever getting out of good hunting country. You can easily get lost in it."

And this is not a place where the birds are set in specific places and all you do is lay your money down, walk up to a fence row outside the 'office' and shoot four pheasants that are 'released from wire traps. You are guaranteed four birds — shoot till you hit — for twenty dollars, with extras available for $5 for cocks and $4 for hens. You add the expertly trained dogs find the birds for yourself, adding all the more to the fun and sport.

Instead of spending $200 for a week's pheasant hunting up North, you can get more birds, have more fun, and cost about a tenth of the $200 plus, right here in the heart of our own state. And this way, you know that you are going to have meat on the table.

Exactly where did I say all this was to take place? "They found their ideal, of all places, in Scott County, nine miles north of Georgetown right on Route 25. The 3,500 acres is part of 1,000 owned by the Buford Hall Estate in Scott County. Exactly none of the leased acreage is cropped. There are heavy sapling thickets, and hundreds of acres of briars, brambles, weed fields, and buck brush."

Already reservations are being taken for both shooting and dog training, a further service of the Kentucky Training Kennels. For further information and reservations, address the Kentucky Training Kennels, Route 2, Georgetown, Kentucky.

This is "Kentucky's first controlled hunting preserve, licensed by the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. Regulations controlling the reserve were established by the Department this year by Commissioner Earl Wallace. At the time Wallace said: "With proper development and advertising I don't see how the venture can be anything but a success. There is definitely a need for such type of hunting among certain type hunters." Mr. Wallace pointed out that all hunting for protected species of game on the preserve would naturally be under the rules and regulations of the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources.

A catfishing expert is C. J. Skates of Illinois, a frequent visitor of Fisherman's One-Stop, at the far end of Eggnor's Ferry Bridge. Skates added a 68 pound catfish to the 38 pounder he'd caught earlier this year.

He fishes deep, using cut shad. His first bewhiskered whopper was cranked up from 80 feet below the surface and his 68 pound hunk of fish flesh was only 70 feet down.

Paul Gilliam of One-Stop reported the striped runner just started, although the big ones haven't started working over the shad runs yet.

However, a string of 6, taken by J. W. Murray of Russellville and John Gist of Elkhart, averaged a pound each and sounded like pretty fair fishing. Mr. and Mrs. John Lane of Hopkinsville, limited on striper totaling 51 pounds. They were using the Brown Rubber Shad's Spinner combination.

Bill Nail, manager of Kentucky Boat dock, reported night fishing for crappie is paying off. Several good bass catches have been scored on surface lures also. The rip-rap, rocks around the bridge, are yielding big bluegill taken on worms to bank and boat fishermen. A few stripers are mixed on the stringers.

BLASTS AT THE WHITEHOUSE

Some of the experts must be disappointed over the President being forced to cancel his visit to the Governor's conference at the Sagamore Hotel, N. Y., this week. What happens now to the detailed forecasts of what the President was to have said at Gov. Thomas E. Dewey on the 24th course at the Sagamore Hotel? They can always write to each other.

Leper Hurdles Biggest Obstacle In 19 Years Of Being A Victim -- That Of Fear

By JACK GATES

United Press Staff-Contributor
CARVILLE, La., July 20 (UP)—Nineteen years ago a young man named Johnny Harmon abruptly quit his job with the Texas highway department

He didn't tell anyone, except his father, where he was going. When he applied for admission to the U. S. Public Health Service hospital here he gave his name as "Johnny Harris."

A few months ago John Harmon—using his real name again—left the hospital. A spare man of 43, he went to Vacherie, La., and opened a photography shop. Business is good. He is making new friends and getting used to being on his own.

Harmon has a slight depression in the skin between his left thumb and forefinger. This is the only sign that for the past 19 years he has been one of the rare American victims of a disease that strikes terror by the very mention of its name—leprosy.

Harmon was 24 and just getting started on a career as a draftsman when a doctor told him he had Hansen's disease, the medical name for the scourge which since ancient times has brought shame and banishment to those it afflicted.

Ashamed of Disease
"I guess I changed my name because I was ashamed and didn't want my relatives to have to suffer, too. I thought my life was over. I would just as soon have died," he recalls today.

At Carville he found a colony of lepers wrapped in gloom. Few of the patients spoke to each other. Many never left their rooms. Doctors and nurses made a game attempt at keeping them cheerful. But most of them could not shake off the knowledge they might never move freely again in society.

At that time the only treatment for leprosy was an old Indian drug called chaulmoogra oil. Since then have come the sulfa drugs, and a new era in the treatment of leprosy.

Doctors have found that with sulfa treatment they can arrest the progress of the disease and keep it under control. Best of all, they can check its infectious quality and allow sufferers to return to their families.

Married and a Father

In 1946, Harmon had responded so well to sulfa treatment his case was marked "closed" by hospital authorities. But he did not leave. He says today he preferred living among the leprosy victims to going back home and facing a world that might always shun him because of his disease.

He opened a photography shop to develop snapshots for patients and employees of the hospital. He fell in love with a girl named Ann—also a patient—and they were married. They had two children who were sent to stay with Ann's family at Vacherie.

This year doctors told Harmon he should leave for his own good and get a fresh start outside.

He finally agreed. Though the Texas Highway Department offered him his old job back, he did not want to return to his home town. He went instead to Vacherie, and had a frank talk with Ernest Bechel, a leading citizen of the town.

"We have great faith in the doctors up there," Bechel told him. "If they discharged you, that's okay with us."

Harmon feels right at home. "I've been invited out a few times," he says, "but it wouldn't be much fun without Ann so I usually turn the invitations down. When she comes home, I guess I'll be getting around more."

Not everybody in Calloway county subscribes to The Ledger & Times but nearly everybody reads it.

Five Years Ago Today

Ledger and Times File
July 24, 1949

Charles N. King, 73, of Buffalo, N.Y., who was visiting his daughter, Mrs. Monroe Holmes of Murray, died Saturday night at the Murray Hospital.

Washington—(UP)—The Veterans Administration says today is the deadline for filing claims. Today there are some 600,000 veterans in the $20 a week for 52 weeks club. Tomorrow that number will have been cut to about 60,000.

Mr. and Mrs. Austin Adkinson and son, Bill, arrived Thursday from Columbia, S.C., for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawton Alexander.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Kelley have returned from St. Louis, Mo., where they attended the International Baby Chick Association.

Funeral services for Charles W. Garrett, 88, of Hazel will be held Tuesday at the Lassiter Cemetery.

The administration discloses its military aid program today and it apparently will touch off one of the hottest congressional debates of the session.

The Problem Of Love vs. Career

June Allyson tells her husband, William Holden, that his love is more important to her than the success or failure of his career, in an intimate scene from "Executive Suite," M-G-M's all star film version of the best-seller novel. Others in one of the greatest casts ever brought to the screen include Barbara Stanwyck, Fredric March, Walter Pidgeon, Shelley Winters, Paul Douglas, Louis Calhern, Dean Jagger, Nina Foch and Tim Conidine. "Executive Suite" opens Sunday at the Air-Conditioned Varsity Theatre.

FREED TWINS TIE INTO CHOW

thought the request might be a gag, particularly the part about asking for Secretary of Treasury George M. Humphrey.

To be on the safe side, however, Anderson telephoned. Sure enough, Humphrey came on the line within a matter of seconds and said, "Come on over, Clint, we need a fourth."

Turned out that President Eisenhower, his buddy George E. Allen and Humphrey were trying to drum up a bridge game. Political party lines dissolved immediately and Anderson sped to the White House.

Now we know where former President Truman must have gotten the word "snollygoster" which he used as an epithet during political campaigns. It must have come from Know Noster, Mo. Mr. Eisenhower nominated a new postmaster for Know Noster the other day.
